

TWENTY-EIGHTH CONGRESS, FIRST SESSION.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1844.
SENATE.

Mr. WHITE presented joint resolutions of his State Legislature, instructing their Senators and requesting their Representatives to vote for an appropriation for removing obstacles in the navigation of the Mississippi, Ohio, and Wabash rivers; also from the same source, for a canal at the falls of the Ohio river; also, on the subject of postage; also, in reference to a lighthouse at city West.

Mr. TAPPAN, a preamble and resolutions from the Legislature of Ohio, in favor of re-trenchment; they are for tending the mania for public offices by reducing the pay of all officers and agents of the Government 33 per cent.

Mr. BERRIEN, the petition of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Company, that they may be allowed to import, duty free, sufficient iron to complete their road.

Mr. KING presented a long memorial from sundry citizens of Alabama, praying Congress not to act on various subjects affecting the interest without due regard to the popular will.

Mr. BERRIEN, from the Judiciary Committee, reported a bill to amend the Judiciary Act of 1789; also, without amendment, a bill to increase the salary of the Judge of the Western and Middle Tennessee district; also, with an amendment, a like bill respecting the Western Circuit of Virginia.

Mr. JARNAGIN, from the Committee on Military Affairs, made several adverse reports.

Mr. ATCHISON'S resolution, calling on the President to give the names of such Receivers and Registers as have collected fees not authorized by law, &c., was adopted.

JACKSON FINE.

Mr. ALLEN proposed to postpone other business, and take up the bill to refund the fine imposed on General Jackson.

Mr. BARROW hoped this would not be done. He was as ready to vote on the bill to-day as he would be at the end of the session, but it would consume much time, and he did not wish it taken up to-day.

Mr. ALLEN said there were strong reasons why it should not be postponed. General Jackson was old and infirm—had no certainty of living a day, and there was every reason to desire speedy action upon this subject.

After some further conversation, at the suggestion of Mr. KING, the subject was postponed until Thursday next.

INSANE ASYLUM FOR THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

A bill for the above purpose was taken up, and the question was on its engrossment.

Mr. TAPPAN would not debate the subject further, but should call the yeas and nays.

Mr. WRIGHT suggested that he would much prefer the bill if the section providing for three inspectors at $250 salary each per annum, was stricken out; he thought such stations ought to be filled voluntarily by such benevolent citizens as would regard the appointment as honorary.

Mr. ALLEN objected to the bill. He was not opposed to the District, and desired to do all that was proper for its interest; but here is an annual appropriation of $5,000 for a population of fifty thousand. In the same ratio it would take $200,000 for the relief of this class of persons in Ohio, where the population was two hundred thousand.

Mr. MERRICK insisted that no such comparison could be made. To the seat of Government many persons were drawn yearly, having business here, some of them became deranged—ought not such to be supported at the expense of the Government?

The bill being likely to lead to further discussion, was passed over, and

Mr. EVANS continued his reply to Mr. McDuffie. Mr. E. concluded his speech, and Mr. Woodbury next took the floor, when the Senate passed into Executive session.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Mr. BELSER, on leave, introduced a bill to authorize the payment of certain claims to the State of Alabama, and to amend the act of 1842 upon the same subject; the bill was referred to the Committee on Claims.

TWENTY-FIRST RULE.

Mr. ADAMS called for the orders of the day. Mr. HAMMETT, of Miss., did not deny the right of petition. This right was established in England to prevent the punishment of the people for assembling to redress their grievances. The framers of our Constitution meant no more than that the people should not be prevented from peaceably assembling; it never was intended to go further, and we had no right to entertain any subject which urged us to interfere with the Constitution. Slaves in this District were, and always had been, considered as property, and the Constitution prohibits any interference with private property for public uses. Slaves, by the United States courts, had always been regarded as property.

Mr. H. became somewhat personal towards Messrs. Barnard, of N. Y., and Mr. Giddings, of Ohio—the former was arraigned for having affirmed his readiness to vote for an appropriation of $15,000,000 for internal improvements; this gentleman belonged to a party in New York who made it a penitentiary offence to rescue a negro. Mr. Giddings, it was said, had proposed an appropriation for a harbor where vessels could go and steal slaves.

The SPEAKER gave indication of an intention to call Mr. H. to order, and Mr. GIDDINGS rose as if to say something, but Mr. H. went on with his remarks. He cited the census returns to show how many more idiotic and insane negroes were found in the free, than in the slave States. Massachusetts was particularly visited with ridicule for having enacted the legality of intermarriage between white and black persons; a movement about as rational as her call upon Congress to obtain pay for the services of her soldiers in the last war! Mr. H. was in the midst of his desultory remarks when the morning hour expired.

Mr. SEVERANCE, of Me., next obtained the floor.

GENERAL TICKET MEMBERS.

This was the day set apart for the special consideration of the above subject.

Mr. DROMGOOLE, of Va., moved that the Committee of the Whole be discharged from the report of the Committee on Elections, and that it be brought before the House for consideration.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of N. C., seconded this motion, and hoped it would prevail.

Mr. SCHENCK, of Ohio, opposed it. If there was any subject that ought to be thoroughly discussed it was this, involving the rights of members and of States.

Mr. DAVIS, of Ky., also protested, in the name of the American people, against this effort to abridge the freedom of debate. If there was any question before this Congress that demanded full investigation and discussion it was this, and no good reason could be given for this premature effort to smother the debate. The majority in this House were all-powerful in Committee of the Whole; they had the two-thirds requisite to stay debate there at any moment, why, then, unless to suppress debate by the reader resort to the previous question, was it sought to take this subject out of Committee of the Whole, where it could be fully and freely discussed?

Mr. DROMGOOLE insisted that it could be as well discussed in the House as in committee, and that the remarks of the gentleman from Kentucky in reference to the majority and their disposition were entirely gratuitous.

Mr. BARNARD, of N. Y., argued that the report had been made, referred, and a day set apart for its consideration by the majority in the House, and, until this moment, they had given no notice of their intention to change this regular order of proceedings. Every one knew enough of majorities to know how they would act when the subject came before the House.

Mr. HOLMES, of S. C., was not prepared to act upon the subject, and preferred that it should be kept in Committee of the Whole.

Mr. HALE, of N. H., seemed to consider himself and the other general ticket members in the same case with the boy whose father sent him to bed, and promised to flog him in the morning. The boy preferred to have the flogging at once, and so he, if he was to be flogged, did not wish to have the punishment deferred. He moved the previous question.

The previous question was seconded, and the yeas and nays called upon the main question.

Before this vote was declared, Mr. CAMPBELL, of S. C., asked the Speaker (Mr. Beardsley being in the Chair) whether the general ticket members had a right to vote?

The SPEAKER declined to answer, unless the question was raised on a point of order.

Mr. SCHENCK put the question in this shape. The SPEAKER then said they had this right, and from this decision Mr. Schenck appealed.

Mr. HUNT, of N. Y., demanded the yeas and nays on this appeal, and the decision was sustained by a vote of 117 to 62.

[Pending this question, a scene of great confusion occurred, two or three members, at times, addressing the Chair at once.]

The vote was then declared upon the question of discharging the Committee of the Whole, which was done by a vote of 107 to 72.

The subject was thus brought directly before the House. The resolutions of the majority and minority were then read, the former declaring the members elected by general ticket entitled to seats, and the latter declaring their seats to be vacated.

Mr. ELMER, of N. J., desired to have the subject postponed, but the House refused this motion, and the gentleman proceeded with his speech in defence of the majority report. In the midst of his remarks, however, he gave way to a motion by Mr. Campbell, that the House should adjourn.

DR. TAYLOR'S BALM OF LIVERWORT, prepared at 875 Bowery, New York, is fully celebrated as the most wonderful curative of pulmonary diseases in the whole range of pharmacy, some of our most respectable physicians use it in their practice, prescribing it as the best of all remedies for pulmonary complaints and physical debility, and they unhesitatingly recommend it to be kept in every family of a consumptive tendency. It is universally received as one of the standard medicines of the day. The great merit of Dr. Taylor's Balm is, that in all cases of pulmonary complaints it gives immediate relief. A single bottle will, in most cases, reveal its astonishing virtues, and open at once the fountain of health and strength to the afflicted. Read the following certificate:

"Being constitutionally predisposed to Consumption, (a number of my family having died with this disease) and having suffered from irritation of the Lungs, accompanied with cough and raising matter and blood, together with severe pain in my side and breast, I was supposed to be beyond recovery, I was induced by advice of Dr. Perkins, as a last resort, to try 'Taylor's Balm of Liverwort.' I have taken five bottles in all. I began to improve with the first bottle, and while taking the third, was so far recovered as to be able to get about. Since which time, by continued use of it, I am quite restored, and able to attend to my usual business. To persons suffering from coughs and affections of the Lungs, I do earnestly recommend it.

(Signed) "JAS. C. SCOTT." ELIZABETH CITY, N. C., Dec. 16, 1842. Observe—The only genuine Taylor's Balm of Liverwort has an engraved label around each bottle, with the signature of Dr. Gordon J. Leeds, attached, to prevent counterfeits. In order to be certain of obtaining the genuine article, purchase only at the original office, 375 Bowery.
